

IN HONOR OF FRANCIS "BOB"
GALANTE OF BROCKTON, MASSA-CHUSETTS

HON. STEPHEN F. LYNCH

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 18, 2009

Mr. LYNCH. Madam Speaker, I rise today in honor of Francis Galante, in recognition of his bravery, sacrifice and service to the United States of America.

Francis is the son of Teresa (Ferrante) and Carl Galante who emigrated from Frigento, Italy. He was born on August 28, 1916 in Brockton, Massachusetts, and lived in West Bridgewater with his aunt and uncle through the Depression.

He graduated from Brockton High School, married Diana Ferrini in 1939, enlisted in the United States Reserves, and was then drafted into the United States Army. He was deployed overseas and stationed in Africa, leaving his wife and ten-month-old daughter.

Francis was later shipped to Salerno, Italy, with the 34th Infantry nicknamed the Red Bull Division. He served as a ranger behind enemy lines. He was hit with shrapnel in Leghorn, Italy, wounding both of his legs and his head. He crawled for days to get back to base in order to receive medical treatment. He received the Purple Heart while in the hospital August 9, 1945.

After being hospitalized in Italy, Atlantic City, and Framingham, Massachusetts, he was discharged August 9, 1945, VJ Day, and returned home to Brockton. He then drove an Eastern Mass bus and also worked for his father-in-law's bakery, Superior Bakery, making over 200 deliveries in one day. Later, he was an important part of the creation of the cabinet company, Wood-Hu Kitchens, in Brockton, later becoming President. He retired from Wood-Hu Kitchens in August, 1981.

Francis was a star athlete, held records in track, and was also a professional gymnast performing in many Brockton clubs. He was a member of the YMCA since he was eight years old and was the longest standing member of the YMCA until his recent illness. He was a member of the Thorny Lea Golf Club in Brockton for over forty years.

Madam Speaker, Francis had many passions in life, the most important being family. He was married at the age of twenty-three to the love of his life, the late Diana. He was the proud parent of two children, four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Francis was known for his amazing health and vigor at the age of 92. He always had the ability to make people laugh while poking fun at the same time. Francis is remembered and admired by his family and many friends.

Madam Speaker, it is my distinct honor to take the floor of the House today to join with Francis Galante's family, friends, and contemporaries to thank him for his remarkable service to his community of Brockton and to the United States of America.

TRIBUTE TO HELEN CROFT

HON. JASON ALTMIRE

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 18, 2009

Mr. ALTMIRE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the extraordinary life of Helen Croft, who died unexpectedly this month at the age of 45.

Known for her warmth, optimism and contagious enthusiasm, Helen was an art teacher at North Allegheny School District's Hosack Elementary School. In this capacity, she positively impacted the lives of thousands of young students, including most recently my two daughters, Natalie and Grace.

She treated every student, teacher and parent with respect, and brought a smile to the face of seemingly everyone with whom she came into contact. She exhibited a love of life that extended well beyond the school.

She also worked as a coach in a community soccer league, and cultivated at her home a renowned colonial-style garden that drew admirers from across western Pennsylvania. A graduate of Buffalo State University and the Fashion Institute of New York City, she was known for her talent for embroidery, which she regularly shared with friends and neighbors.

She will be greatly missed by those friends and neighbors, as well as the entire North Allegheny School District, especially her students. But of course her loss will be most deeply felt by her husband Corky and their two children, Jacob and Hannah.

Her work lives on in the hearts of everyone she touched, and she serves as a lasting inspiration to the students who loved her.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 20TH AN-NIVERSARY OF THE OHIO AERO-
SPACE INSTITUTE

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 18, 2009

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, I rise today in recognition of the Ohio Aerospace Institute, as they celebrate their 20th anniversary on 20th of May, 2009.

The Ohio Aerospace Institute (OAI) is a non-profit organization whose work is supported by several institutions, including the NASA Glenn Research Center, the Air Force Research Laboratory, and the Wright Patterson Air Force Base. The institute works in conjunction with ten public and private universities in the State of Ohio by offering students the opportunity to study aerospace engineering for their graduate work, as well as with numerous companies around the country.

The OAI leads research projects and develops technology partnerships in order to connect universities, laboratories and industries working in the field of aerospace engineering. Their partnerships with local universities educate and mentor local students, creating the future leaders of our aerospace workforce. The OAI also brings together various representatives of the governmental, industrial and educational sectors—fostering and improving stronger cooperation between them.

Since OAI's inception 20 years ago, they now have 80 employees and have led more than 250 research and development projects funded by 206 million dollars from the space industry sector and the federal government. The OAI is continuing Ohio's instrumental and historical role in space research by inspiring our future John Glenns, Wright Brothers, and Neil Armstrongs.

Madam Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honor of the tireless service and significant contribution that the Ohio Aerospace Institute has provided to the State of Ohio and to our entire nation.

SHELBY WEST

HON. ED PERLMUTTER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 18, 2009

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize and applaud Shelby West who has received the Arvada Wheat Ridge Service Ambassadors for Youth award. Shelby West is an 8th grader at Moore Middle School and received this award because her determination and hard work have allowed her to overcome adversities.

The dedication demonstrated by Shelby West is exemplary of the type of achievement that can be attained with hard work and perseverance. It is essential that students at all levels strive to make the most of their education and develop a work ethic that will guide them for the rest of their lives.

I extend my deepest congratulations once again to Shelby West for winning the Arvada Wheat Ridge Service Ambassadors for Youth award. I have no doubt she will exhibit the same dedication she has shown in her academic career to her future accomplishments.

CONGRATULATING TAIWAN ON OB-TAINING OBSERVER STATUS IN WORLD HEALTH ASSEMBLY

HON. WALLY HERGER

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 18, 2009

Mr. HERGER. Madam Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Taiwan on its participation as an observer in the 62nd annual World Health Assembly (WHA), which is taking place in Geneva this week. The recent H1N1 influenza outbreak serves as yet another reminder that international cooperation is vital to protecting against the spread of infectious diseases. In order to achieve this goal, it is important to have broad participation in the activities of the World Health Organization (WHO), and I commend the WHO for inviting Taiwan to assist in carrying out its mission.

Taiwan is a key trading partner for the United States and the fifth largest overseas market for U.S. agricultural exports. With growing attention to ensuring the safety of the food supply in a global economy, our close economic ties with the people of Taiwan present another compelling argument for Taiwan's involvement in the WHA. Furthermore, I believe the Taipei delegation will bring a valuable perspective to the WHA in light of Taiwan's remarkable success in advancing the public health of its people.
